

PERSISTENCE PAYS OFF, or at least local resident Elmore Williams found Monday when years of pleading, begging, demanding and otherwise requesting the city to install lights at the Lakeshore softball field finally resulted in the erection of lights. The lights are expected to be operational in two to three weeks. Williams was on the scene Monday when installation began.

City has lower budget

BELLE GLADE—Despite a 35 percent increase in water and sewer rates for the coming year, the $5,618,330 city budget tentatively approved during a day-long workshop Saturday is 8 percent smaller than this year's version.

The commissioners gathered at city hall for their second annual budget retreat were able to go over and generally approve the budget quicker this year than ever before.

City Manager Robert R. Sanders said there would be only one major adjustment as a result of commissioners' suggestions.

No dollar figure was mentioned but the commissioners, when they were discussing the Streets Department, told Sanders they wanted him to include a program for rebuilding sidewalks, particularly on Southwest Avenue B. Other sidewalks mentioned were on Southwest Third Street between Avenues A and B and sidewalks on Southwest Avenue D.

Sanders told the commissioners he hadn't budgeted in sidewalk construction but Mayor Tom Altman and Commissioner William Grear said they thought they had promised merchants on Avenue B they would rebuild the sidewalks there in the upcoming year.

The city budget was broken into three sections covering general, water and sewer and recreation funds.

Sanders pointed out the $3,349,960 general fund budget was cut 12 percent from last year; the recreation fund was cut by 6 percent and the water and sewer fund, even with projected increase in income from water and sewer charges of $362,750, will be down by 1 percent.

Assistant Finance Director Carey Wall said the difference in the water and sewer fund is the elimination of federal revenue sharing money, which will cost the city $94,940.

Sanders said the average pay raise for city employees is 8 percent. He said increases in starting ranges run from zero to 31 percent.

The high figure was for the library director but Sanders said that is see Budget P9

A RADAR UNIT being used to cut down the number of speeders in demonstrated by Patrolman George Radford. Radford pointed out, as did Lt. M.J. Spooner, the increased use is preventive rather than an attempt to increase city revenues.

Speeders to be tracked

BELLE GLADE—A speed gun purchased two years ago by the City Police Department is beginning to get regular use as the department cracks down on speeders over city streets.

Lt. M.J. "Speedy" Spooner said Tuesday the department has been training seven officers and have been using the radar gun for several days now but have only been issuing warnings so far.

"We're only warning the people now," Spooner said, "but we'll be giving citations in about a week and a half. You might call it preventive maintenance."

"The speeding situation has gotten so bad," he said, "that citizens have been calling in about it and complaining. Ever since that four-laning has been completed, North and South Main Street has become a speedway."

Spoooner said the problem isn't restricted to Main Street. He said there has been a large problem in residential areas too. He said he isn't going to restrict the control program to any given part of the city.

"I would rather not even give out tickets," he went on. "I'd rather have the residents recognize the law and slow down to the speed limit but we are going to try to stop it." He pointed out that in most accidents there is a double violation and speeding is usually one of those violations.

Spoooner said the police department

Vending machine law is questioned

BELLE GLADE—Whether or not to issue occupational licenses allowing the distribution of juke boxes and game machines will have to wait until someone comes up with whether there's a reason for an ordinance restricting the number of licenses to be issued...and proof of where the petitioner lives.

City Manager Robert R. Sanders told the commissioners the ordinance governing vending machines for music and entertainment require the operator to have lived in the city for at least two years before the request is made and that no more than one license can be issued for every 5,000 persons in the city as of the last census.

Sanders said the last census estimate places Belle Glade's population 625 people short of the 18,000 required to grant a third license (there are already two issued) and that research indicated that Tommy Housch, the would-be operator, doesn't live at the 618 S.E. Sixth St. address he gave on his application.

Housch said he had lived at the Belle Glade address since 1974 and Mayor Tom Altman said that wouldn't be too hard to check out but the problem he had was the reason for drawing up the ordinance in the first place.

Former County Judge J.L. Tyson Jr., representing Housch, said he would like to know the same answer and asked the commission to either waive the one licensee per 5,000 population rule or strike out the population formula entirely.

"The ordinance may have had a purpose when it was drawn up," Tyson said. "But I fail to see it now. I hope the tenor of the commission has changed."

The ordinance was adopted by the city commission in 1963 and when Altman asked Sanders if he knew the rationale behind it, Sanders said he didn't know.

Altman then asked City Attorney John Baker if he knew why the ordinance was adopted and Baker said he didn't. He said it may have been a method for police control of the machines but that was conjecture.

"The cases I've been able to find," Baker said, "have related the restriction to gambling. It only takes a turn of a key to turn these machines into gambling machines and anybody who wasn't born yesterday knows the same people who make these machines make slot machines. It's more regulatory than revenue oriented."

Tyson said that so far as legality of the ordinance is concerned, "I agree completely with Mr. Baker but if there is no reason for restraint then I wouldn't agree."

In the mean time, Commissioner William Grear recalled that a Belle Glade man had made an application for a similar license about two years ago and when he was turned down on account of the population requirement of the ordinance, had asked to be placed on a waiting list so he could enter the business when Belle Glade's population had increased sufficiently.

Tyson said if that were the case, he would hope the commission would relax the restrictions enough to allow two licenses to be issued. Grear was referring to a request made in 1973 by local businessman Nathaniel Edwards, who wanted, along with his partner Jerry Roberts, to get a license so they could install machines in The City to have input in water management

BELLE GLADE—The members of the City Commission were asked their opinions Monday on what kind of management system is best for water management in the county.

Richard Stalker, director of environmental planning for the Area Planning Board, gave a presentation on what is being attempted to control water pollution in the county and said the 208 Areawide Water Quality Management plan, usually referred to as the 208 plan, is now at a stage of offering technical and management options.

Stalker said he and his staff are making presentations to municipalities throughout the county, both to acquaint them with what is being done, what the goals are and to get input from the municipalities on how to reach the goals.

He said the purpose of the 208 program is to set up an areawide umbrella system for water quality management, coordinating point source (201) control efforts with non-point-source pollution control.

"Point source pollution, he explained, comprises sewer treatment plants and other major sources of pollution located in single areas.

Non-point pollution he described as storm runoffs, and drainage from urban areas, agricultural

High priority given golf

BELLE GLADE—Approximately 108 acres of land which could be used to extend the municipal golf course to 18 holes and add a driving range was one of three parcels of land given top priority to purchase by the Palm Beach County Commission Tuesday.

The land, which would be one of three parcels recommended by the County Beach and Parks Bond Advisory Committee, would be paid for out of proceeds from a $50 million bond floated four years ago for the purpose of buying more parks and beachfront property.

It was one of two proposed park projects recommended by the committee. The other, a 320-acre regional park on SR 715, wasn't included in the top three priorities during Tuesday's meeting.

The land is owned by Fritz Stein and has been appraised at $606,234 but no asking price has been received.

Should the deal go through, either the city or county would operate the golf course as a public facility, which it now is.

ment called on the Florida Highway Patrol and Trooper D.F. Hudson last week on a training program to make sure local police officers know how to use the radar unit properly.

SWEARING IN as a candidate for the Group Two City Commission race in the Sept. 12 election last Thursday was former City Commissioner Aubrey Farmer. Farmer, being sworn by Perla Tucker, secretary to the city clerk, previously served six two-year terms on the commission, including three one-year terms as mayor. He is opposing incumbent Ralph Kirk. Kirk and incumbent Mayor Tom Altman qualified for re-election July 14.

CORNER STONES

BY RIFF LAMPTON

This past week the wife and I made our annual pilgrimage to the Florida Keys. Our avowed purpose is to bring home enough tasty lobster that we can dine on in pleasure the rest of the year.

This year, as in every other journey, we were not disappointed. Two hard days of diving netted exactly nine crawfish of legal size. And those just barely.

But then, our efforts seemed to be on a par with everyone else. Nobody much found lobster in the cloudy, windswept water. At least not in our party. Our biggest coup came when one of our best lobster hunters was given two large ones for towing in a broken-down boat. There were estimates that 40,000 people participated in the special diver's lobster hunt this year. A number from Belle Glade and Pahokee were scheduled to go down. I only hope they did better than us.

But the Keys are always interesting. Lobster or not. It's a nice place to visit but I don't believe I could live there for any length of time.

We rode down to the Key Deer reserve and motored through on the lookout for one of the little deer. Guess luck was with us because a fawn still in spots walked across the road and stopped. We drove up and killed the motor not ten feet from it and watched as the fawn croaked brouse. Its mother was on the other side of the road but refused to come out of the palmettos and allow us a glance.

Back in our Islamorada hotel, we discovered the other three couples had likewise headed for parts unknown and since it was too windy to fish and the crawfish season had ended not to mention the fact everyone had soaked up far too much sun, we sat inside and watched a show on television about diving.

Everyone returned from Key West later that evening and we all went out to dinner at one of Islamorada's finest eateries. And they no longer had the turtle soup or steak. Guess that's another reason not to go back to that particular restaurant...not to mention the bad service.

All in all, this trip to the Keys convinced me that I don't think I'm the same as our first trip seven years ago. They're changing and I think for the worst.

If Ernest Hemingway could return to Key West, I'd bet he would turn right back around, drive the 120 or so miles back to the mainland, hang a left on the Tamiami Trail and push hard for Chokoloskee.

There he could find a quiet bay, plenty fresh stone crab claws to munch on, and lots of lies from the fishermen who gather there.

Hemingway was that sort of guy. I don't think he would have been too enthusiastic about the herds of tourists crowding every nook and cranny of the Keys, throwing their beer cans alongside the roads and swabbing Copper-tones all over their bodies.

Don't get me wrong. There's nothing bad about being a tourist. I became one this past week out of want for nothing better to do. But given the choice, I would prefer the wilds of Shark and Lostman's River to the crowds of the Keys.

Even though there are no divisible crawfish in the Ten Thousand Islands, there are still plenty of fish and lots of stone crabs. And the air smells of mangrove and salt instead of suntan lotion and asphalt. And I guess a rural Mississippi boy turned mudcat enjoys the more than the environment one finds in the Keys these days.

Opinion

Questions and answers

What should have been a simple problem of whether to issue an occupational license Monday night turned into a confusing controversy which could have become even more controversial if related information had come out.

Tommy Housch was asking the city commission to issue a license so he could distribute juke boxes and pinball machines, a request which had been denied by the city administration on grounds Housch failed to meet the requirements of a city ordinance.

The ordinance requires an applicant to be a city resident and also restricts licenses for this type of vending machines to one per 6,000 residents in the city.

City Manager Robert Sanders was on firm ground in denying the request. Housch would be the third person to receive a license with fewer than 18,000 population. Sanders was on firm ground because Housch didn't qualify according to the ordinance and it isn't up to Sanders or anybody else in the administration to question ordinances. Those are the ground rules the administration must play by.

The two major problems we see, however, is that there is apparently no valid reason for the restriction and, to all intents and purposes, the two existing licenses are issued to a single business enterprise.

The latter problem didn't come up at the commission meeting but it did come up almost five years ago when another local businessman attempted to get the same kind of license and was denied on the same account.

One explanation for the restriction was that the game machines could be turned into gambling machines with the turn of a key. While we don't know that much about pinball machines and the newer versions of coin machines designed to offer entertainment for a nickel or a dime, that could very well be true.

But if two people want to gamble, they could gamble just as easily on the title of the next record to be played in a juke box... or the next person who'll be playing the machine or on which of two raindrops will reach the bottom of a window pane first.

If there is no competition, however, there isn't much of a gamble for the person who is in such a favorable business position.

Unless some compelling reason to circumvent free enterprise can be found, the commission should remove the restriction and allow anyone who wishes to have a license.

That's one solution which would solve both problems.

Social Insecurity

Received an announcement from Senator Lawton Chiles the other day about a new ruling Chiles wrung from the Social Security Administration which now allows retirees investing in citrus and other farms to draw dividends from their investments without losing anything from their Social Security payments.

Seems Senator Chiles managed to convince the Social Security Administration bureaucrats those investments were investments and not self-employment income and therefore, anyone making something from those investments can make all they can without jeopardizing their Social Security.

Social Security, you see, can only be drawn in the full amount if the drawee makes less than $3,240 a year if he's under 65 and $4,000 if he's 65 or over.

That was a good move, Senator. Now, why don't you see what you can do for the people on retirement who really need that extra income.

Let's face it. A person can be as frugal as possible in this age of inflation and still be living from payday to payday without a cent to save for investments or savings.

So what happens to that person when he goes on Social Security, finds he just can't make it on the fixed income allowed, especially since if he wasn't making very good money during his earning years, he sure won't be making the maximum allowed under Social Security?

All too often, the only thing he can do is get a job or go into business for himself and if he makes more than $4,000, he simply has an equivalent amount taken out of his Social Security.

And if his pension plus $4,000 still isn't enough, he may well be reduced to cheating Uncle Sam to make ends meet...which isn't what you'd refer to as one of your more enlightened ways of treating the older folks of this country who've paid their dues through years of hard work.

Anyone who's paid the average amount of Social Security over the average working span of his life shouldn't be reduced to begging for extra help because his Social Security isn't enough to pay his way.

That money's his, not Uncle Sam's. He's put in all too many hours of his life socking money away in FICA taxes to ensure that when he retires, he'll have some kind of income.

Besides, Social Security, if you believe all the bureaucratic flak put out by the government, isn't meant to support a person in retirement. It's supposed to only pay part of the bill. That's the explanation you get when you complain about the small amount of the payments.

Why then, should anyone object to a retiree supplementing his "partial retirement fund" by working on the side, no matter how much he makes?

He's worked for it. It's his and he should get it. It isn't as though he'd been on welfare while he was able to work but chose not to.

The worker is worth his hire. Let him have it.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Most of the people raised about the time and place where and when I was a teenaged misfit know what I mean when I use the term, "Sweet thang".

Sweet thang was a guy's girl or something else he thought highly of. Like his hot rod engine. I never did find out which was the most important because you might speed a lot of time down at the bluff overlooking the moonlit St. John's River but you killed a lot of hours under the shade tree too. Course there were who thought the sweetest thing they ever heard was an engine, unimpeded by such irrelevancies as mufflers, racking off when they downshifted.

But cars and women aside, I was given a new definition for sweet thang last week when Tandy Morris strolled into the office about the time I was looking for a column-idea and showed me a write up about the world's largest peach pie.

Seems Mr. Morris had been up to Gaffney, S.C. not too long ago when that South Carolina town was holding its annual Peach Festival and the folks up that way decided they'd get their own entry in the Guinness Book of World Records.

So, they whopped up a peach pie that truly boggles the mind. Talk about deep dish, it was three feet deep and 25 feet across. The price was right, though because just about everything was donated.

They got, for instance, local peach growers to donate 20,000 pounds of peaches. Dixie Crystals donated 10,000 pounds of sugar and the folks up that way donated some of the Glades' (Other ingredients included 5,000 pounds of flour, 1,800 pounds of Crisco and more than 3,000 pounds of Milk.

Needless to say, you don't try to bake such a whopper of a pie in Granny's oven.

Took around 9,000 bricks to make the oven and quite a few men worked on the steel pie pan, not to mention the gas burners imbedded in the brick oven foundation.

"That was cooking it when we were there," Tandy said, "and they were still throwing peaches in but it wasn't ready until we left. So we didn't get a chance to taste it."

What I was wondering about was the size of the pie. I figure it, about seven five-yard dump trucks of vanilla ice cream would've done nicely.

Or, if you could've put cheese on top. Ferried, I like to bet that way but that would've kept three daytrips of Jersey's working overtime for three months up in Wisconsin.

Such goin'-on gets you to thinking, though, about what kind of a superlatives we could come up with here next March for the first annual Black Gold Jubilee.

One of the first things I came up with was the world's largest salad. Figure on the proceeds of 14 fields of iceberg lettuce (at the going rate in the grocery store right now, that'd probably bankrupt us), two acres of radishes, eight acres of celery, eight acres of tomatoes, a couple half acres of cukes and a couple tons of bacon crumbled over the top.

Then comes the salad dressing. We'd have the choice of doubling the dividends for stockholders in Kraft or Wishbone or we could stick to a conservative recipe of two cars of Vinegar and another three of salad oil.

I gave up when I started thinking about the problem in tossing the mess though and started looking at sugar. That makes more sense anyway when you think about the number of tons being stored here right now.

I figure if we got to work right now on the distillery, we could come up with the world's biggest Cuba Libre...always provided we could get Coca Cola to promise us their output from every bottling plant in Florida for the next six months.

Then you'd have the problem of getting Bayer to promise they'd reserve a couple extra barrels of aspirin for the next morning.

Course we could just decide to buy up Bethlehem Steel and build a mixing tub to make candy but even if we could get F&W to provide the power to twirl around, it'd probably create a white hot and bad enough to make the 28 hurricane look like a spring breeze.

What the heck, I think I'd rather have the hangerover. Now to corner the market on drinking straws.

Two attend band conference

PAHOKEE—The Pahokee High School Band is on the move. Two more Pahokee Band (O.D. Express) students recently returned from a musical workshop, with four more attending a musical camp this week.

Students Karen Stephens and Faryl Nagler attended a clarinet workshop July 9 through 14th at Florida Technological University in Orlando.

Karen, a sixth year music student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stephens, II of 261 Adams Place, said while in Orlando, Faryl and herself had the opportunity to appear in concert with the University's summer band, directed by Mr. John Norton.

She also said the clinic included classes on music theory, improvisation and techniques.

Faryl, a sophomore, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nagler of 397 North Juniper said the group of high school students attending the camp, represented 22 high schools in the state, with Pahokee High School having the only two representatives from Palm Beach County.

Faryl and Karen both proclaimed that the biggest thrill of the week long camp was the solos they both played during a public concert.

Mr. Ollice Davis, Jr., band director, said he encouraged the band members to attend summer music camp and thus far a number of students have or are planning to attend camp this summer, he said.

Mayor's car stolen, recovered later

BELLE GLADE—The admonition to drivers to remove ignition keys from their cars when they leave them was driven home to Mayor Tom Altman last week when he left his car in front of city hall for a few moments and returned to find it gone but fast working police relocated it for him the next morning.

Altman parked his car in front of the city hall at 12:30 p.m. Thursday and went into the city clerk's office to sign some papers. He said later he was tied up longer than he expected and when he returned to the parking lot, the car was gone.

He said he had left the keys in the ignition. Men working in the area reported later, seeing a car matching the description of the mayor's leaving the parking lot at a high rate of speed but they couldn't identify the driver.

Police Chief D. Bill Mathis reported Friday the car was recovered at 8:30 a.m. Friday in the 600 block of Southwest Third Street. Nothing was missing and Altman reported a cracked tail light lens was the only damage.

On honor roll

GAINESVILLE—Miss Sharon Kay Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clayton of Belle Glade, was awarded Presidents Honor Roll certificate for earning straight "A"'s during spring quarter.

Of the University of Florida's 77,360 enrolled spring students Miss Clayton was among the 841 receiving certificates.

On county charter

Hearing date is changed

BELLE GLADE—The last of a series of six informational hearings on the proposed Palm Beach County Charter will be held at the county's Glades Office Building on US441. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 7.

The purpose of the meetings is to acquaint the public with precisely what the proposed charter would do if adopted in a referendum during the general election on Nov. 7. The meetings began Wednesday in the North County Courthouse in Palm Beach Gardens and the second will be tonight in the Delray Beach City Hall.

Three more meetings will be held Monday in the county commission chambers in West Palm Beach; July 31 in the main clubhouse of Century Village in West Palm Beach and Aug. 3 in the main clubhouse at Kings Point in Delray Beach. All the meetings begin at 7:30 p.m.

County Administrator John C. Sensbury recently told the county commission the time frame for citizen input and a board decision on possible revisions is set so the issue can be placed on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Following the informational meetings, a workshop session will be held by the county commission in chambers at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 14 to review comments and a final public hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Aug. 22 in chambers.

The county commission has already reviewed recommendations of an appointive Charter Advisory Council and the administrative staff and made several changes. The council and staff has since been dissolved.

The most controversial section of the proposed charter was strengthened by the commission when they amended the document to extend commission control over constitutional officers who would become charter officers. These are the sheriff, the supervisor of elections, the property appraiser, the tax collector and the clerk of courts.

The commission amendment provides that the charter officers will channel hiring, purchasing and budget preparations through county officers rather than their own as they now do.

The commission appears to be split on the subject of adopting the charter. Commissioners Peggy Evtat and Dennis Mosher have indicated support and active promotion as individuals. Commissioners Lake Lytal and William Medlen favor a "hands off" policy to let voters decide on their own and Commissioner Bill Bailey has expressed opposition to the charter in general.

MR. AND MRS. TOM A. TRIPLITT

Miss Wedgworth weds Mr. Triplitt

BELLE GLADE — Miss Diane Katherine Wedgworth became the bride of Tom Andrews Triplitt of Sumter S.C., July 8, in a double ring ceremony at the Belle Glade Community United Methodist Church with the Reverend Guldmar Blair officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wedgworth of Belle Glade and Mr. and Mrs. Rupert A. Triplitt of Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. Jeanne Williams of Metairie La., cousin of the bride, sang "One Hand, One Heart," "I Believe," and "The Lord's Prayer," with Mrs. Karen Corbin accompanying her on the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a "Priscilla of Boston" white gown with a wedding band neckline and an empire waistline front tapering to a natural waisted back. The bodice was covered with Alencon and satin Venise lace. The long tapered sleeves were made of English net with silk Venise flowers and floral Alencon lace. The silkened organza skirt had Bristol appliques scattered on the front of the skirt. The Watteau train of English net also had the Bristol appliques bordered with Alencon lace. The white shoulder length Brussels lace veil was mounted on a satin Juliet cap.

The bride's bouquet was styled in a cascade design of all white Tony orchids and stephanotis, string pearls and five pure white cattleya orchids.

Mrs. Deborah Altman, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Claire Butler and Miss Katherine Triplitt of Columbus, sisters of the groom, Miss Jennifer Wiggall of Knoxville, Tenn., and Miss Mary Katherine Lawrence of Chattanooga Tenn.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of soft rose pink jersey knit enhanced with blouson tops and slit-capped sleeves. The matron of honor's houquet was a double nosegay garlanded with smilax, pink sonia roses, pink agapanthus and godetia lilies. Her hair piece was of godetia lilies, sonia rose petals, and stephanotis. The bridesmaids' bouquets and hair adornments were fashioned after the matron of honors'.

The groom's father was the best man and the usher-groomsmen were Rupert A. Triplitt, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., brother of the groom, Douglas Wedgworth and Dennis Wedgworth of Belle Glade, brothers of the bride and Felix J. Burrus, Jr., of Columbus, Ga., cousin of the groom.

Miss Laura Boynton of Fort Lauderdale, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the bride's guest book.

The bride and groom's mothers both wore identical corsages of white cattleya orchids with natural foliage while both grandmothers also wore corsages of white orchids. The church altar was decorated with two brass spiral candelabra (on each side of the communion table) garlanded with smilax. The communion table held a large fan arrangement of friendship gladiolus, California chrysanthemums, Fuji mums, and pale pink agapanthus. A brass kneeling bench and lady palms completed the main altar. The family reserved section was marked off with brass standing pew markers with epergne arrangements of pale pink agapanthus, Fuji pompons and garlanded with smilax. The table in the church narthex was decorated with a smaller version of the arrangement of flowers on the church communion table. The guest registry stand was garlanded with smilax.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wedgworth. The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of pink-sonia roses. Centered on the bride's table with a floor length tablecloth of embossed tiered white organza was a large five-branch silver candelabrum with epergne arrangement of pink sonia roses, white agapanthus and godetia lilies with smilax garlanded from candelabrum to each end of the table. The five tiered columned bride's cake had smilax attached to a nosegay of sonia roses on top. The smilax was then garlanded between the tiers and roses complemented each tier. The Groom's cake which was located on the other side of the silver candelabrum was also a five tiered cake and decorated identical to that of the Bride's cake.

The hors d'oeuvre table was also garlanded with smilax and had a five branch silver candelabrum with epergne arrangement of pink sonia roses, agapanthus and godetia lilies.

Music at the reception was provided by Ted John of West Palm Beach.

The bride wore a short beige linen dress with a matching jacket with navy blue accessories for her wedding trip. Her going away corsage of brass nodosa orchids grown by her Grandmother Wedgworth.

After a wedding trip to the island of Bermuda the couple will live at 327 Baker Street, Sumter, S.C. 29150.

Mrs. Lee said the children were supposed to wear costumes representative of the area of the state they came from and she could think of nothing more representative of the Glades than an ear of corn.

Vegetable seminar set

BELLE GLADE — A seminar designed to help residents come up with good crops when they plant a home vegetable garden will be held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. August 4 at the Palm Beach County Glades Office Building on US 441.

Gene Joyner, urban horticulturist for the County Cooperative Extension Service, will be holding the seminar to introduce new gardeners to the proper ways to set up vegetable gardens and to assist long-time gardeners in producing better crops.

"A lot of residents enjoy growing their own vegetables," Joyner said, "but unfortunately many people don't end up with a very large crop due to problems they don't understand or fail to recognize."

Pioneer resident is honored

PAHOKEE — Mrs. James H. Wilson, Mrs. Leon Spooner, and Mrs. Perry Duke entertained recently at Mrs. Wilson's home, 1863 Bacon Point Road, honoring their sister, Mrs. Adaline Stuckey on her 75th birthday.

Mrs. Ray Urry of Canal Point, and Mrs. Bud Stowers of West Palm Beach, long time friends of the family, assisted the hostesses in serving birthday cake and punch to approximately 75 friends and relatives who called to express their best wishes to Mrs. Stuckey on this occasion.

Those attending from out of town were: Mrs. Stuckey's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Padgett, of West Palm Beach; niece and grand niece, Mrs. Wayne Browning and daughter Alice Elizabeth of Moore Haven; cousins, Mrs. Jim Forbes and Barney Spivey, of Miami, Mrs. D.C. Barger of South Bay, Mrs. J.T. Quarry of Belle Glade, and Mrs. Bud Stowers of West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Stuckey has the distinction of being one of the oldest pioneers of Pahokee, having come to this city with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Noble Padgett, on June 21, 1914.

BPW reports on state convention

PAHOKEE—The Pahokee Business and Professional Women's Club held their monthly business meeting Tuesday, July 18, with President Maureen McNulty presiding.

During the meeting Mrs. Roxanne Curtis gave a detailed report on the State B.P.W. Convention held at Lake Buena Vista last month. At the state convention the Pahokee club had a chance to win the scrapbook award but did not win due to the lack of more news media coverage. It was decided by members of the Pahokee club that persons from the Everglades Observer and Glades Trend would be invited to each monthly program to give more coverage of B.P.W. events.

The Pahokee Club was also commemorated for their donation of $500 to the State B.P.W. Scholarship House in Tallahassee.

The money was raised through flea markets held in Pahokee and Okeechobee.

A discussion was held on the possibility of a trip to Musciana in West Palm Beach in August. The trip will be taken instead of the regular monthly meeting due to the fact that many members are away on vacation. The date and time will be announced at a later date.

Christian Comments

Family Devotions should be a regular part of every Christian home. Here are some important keys to remember about family devotions:

—Devotions should be as regular as possible. When we consistently do something it becomes easier to do as it becomes a natural part of our schedule.

—Devotions should be as interesting as possible. Not much is accomplished if everyone is thinking about something else.

—Everyone should have an opportunity to participate and to take an active part in the devotion. We, especially children, seem to learn better when we are active and involved than when we just listen.

—Devotion time should be as positive as possible. Always with the idea of future correct behavior in mind.

—When visitors are present include them in the family devotion. It can be a tremendous way for your family to minister to others.

—Vary the devotional material occasionally to maintain everyone's interest. Bible Stories, missionary stories, singing, Bible quizzes and games, etc.

—As your children get older you might take turns giving the devotional. This prepares the older children to minister to others.

—Devotional time might also be a good time for families to discuss problems and hurt feelings. These can be ministered to during that time by prayer and forgiveness.

—Be flexible in family devotions so long as Biblical truths are being considered, and the family is not spending too much time in one area of the Christian faith.

—Most of all, remember it is the home's responsibility to teach Bible doctrine and concepts. So spend time discussing things like who is Jesus, the Holy Spirit, Angels, Heaven, prayer, service, etc.

Rev. Leo Clayton Hughes, Pastor, First Baptist Church, South Bay.

Do we then restrict our Bible teaching to devotional time? I think the only thing worse than no devotion at all might be to limit Christian teaching to just devotional time. This attitude that religion and the secular are separate is not a Christian attitude. The Bible says "Everything you do, in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord." We should never imply to our children that religion is only for certain times. How can we "In all our ways acknowledge Him" imply any less to our children.

Sound radical? It sure does. The Christian life is a radical life. It is a devoted life to Jesus Christ. We are all many times double-minded in our Christianity. Let's devote our lives to Jesus, and teach our children to do the same. I think the dividends, not only in this life, but the life to come are well worth the time. We will "train up our children in the way they should go."

Obituary

REV. LEO CLAYTON HUGHES

LUVERNE, ALA.—Funeral services for the Rev. Leo Clayton Hughes, 64, who has three children living in the Lake Okeechobee area, were held Friday, July 21, at Pleasant Home Baptist Church where he had been pastor for more than 20 years.

Rev. Hughes died Wednesday, July 19 in Crenshaw County Hospital following a long illness. The Revs. William Leverette and C.C. Bailey officiated over the services and burial was in Pleasant Home Cemetery.

Survivors included his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Hughes of Leverage, Ala.; his mother, Jesse Hughes of West Palm Beach, daughter, Mrs. June Boglioli of Belle Glade; two sons, Jesse M. Hughes of LaBelle and Teddy L. "Donnie" Hughes of Clewiston; one sister, Mrs. Erma L. Clarke of Indiantown; four brothers, Dewey D. Hughes of Dozier, Ala., Arnold Hughes of Pahokee, Henry Greene Hughes of Mobile, Ala. and Earl Hughes of Clewiston; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Rev. Hughes was a member of Black Rock Masonic Lodge and full Masonic rites at graveside. Turner Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

God's Purposes

If you were having a picnic at the lake at approximately this spot, you might say, "Well, why did the engineers leave those trees in the water when they made this lake? They create such an eyesore. I can see no purpose in it." Yet, fishermen tell us that the fish love those old tree stumps and roots and that you can almost always find fish swimming in the dark recesses around and between these trees.

So many times we question God's wisdom in allowing some things to be and other things to come to pass. But God is good and his purposes are wise. The very thing that seems useless to us, might make us marvel if we could see with Heaven's eyes.

As Isaiah reminds us, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts."

But he also wants us to know that his thoughts are many toward us and that everything works toward our good and our salvation. If we had no conflicts, and no questions, we would never have the opportunity to step out on faith.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Belle Glade goes to court over buildings

BELLE GLADE - City Commissioners moved Monday night to go to court to demolish two condemned buildings city staffers have been working for the past 18 months to have either demolished or brought up to the city building code.

The decision came during the regular commission meeting when Building Inspector Kenneth Retterer said no action had been taken in response to an April 10 Findings of Fact and Order.

The order directed Nathaniel Colbert of 341 S.W. Tenth St. to either begin demolition within ten days or apply for a building permit, submitting detailed plans, within 90 days to restore the two buildings to city code standards.

Retterer said Colbert hasn't made an application to either demolish the buildings or repair them. The two buildings, located at 948 and 968 S.W. Ave. D, are owned by Colbert's sisters, Thelma Carwise and Blanche Jasper, both of whom live in Andalusia, Pa.

The city first notified Colbert in February 1977 he would have to either demolish the buildings or bring them up to code. After Retterer had made several contacts, the matter was brought before the commission in February 1978.

Colbert told the commission at the time he could repair the houses and had actually made attempts to repair them but every time he did some work on them, vandals destroyed what he'd done.

He agreed in May to contract to have the buildings repaired and said he'd contacted a Clewiston architect to draw up the plans. He said at the time he would bring the plans to the city and apply for a building permit as soon as he could.

In other action, the commission: • Rejected the only two bids to renovate the city library because both the bids were much higher than estimated and City Building Inspector Kenneth Retterer said that while the specifications were properly drawn, there had been a problem with the limitations and scope of the project.

Retterer said the city hadn't intended to include the Lawrence Will Museum, which is part of the library building, in the renovation project but that hadn't been explained in the contract.

The two bids were made by Roe Steele Construction Co. in the amount of $51,000 and Lutz Construction Company in the amount of $53,640. The city had budgeted $31,000 for the project.

"I hate to do this," Mayor Tom Altman said. "We've already opened the bids and put them on the table. It wouldn't be so bad if this was the first time but it's happened too many times. We're isolated out here and we don't get many bids anyway. If we do this too often, we won't be getting any bids for any price."

Altman asked if the city manager couldn't have come up with another way of handling the situation such as putting out an addendum to the advertised bids, holding them unopened or returning them to the bidders, unopened, with an addendum explaining the problem. He also suggested it might be possible to accept the lowest bid and use a change order.

Retterer said he realized the problem before the bids were opened but he hadn't sufficient time to issue an addendum. He also said the changes in the contract would have been too many and too complex for a change order.

• Accepted the low bid of $4,575 from K-R Industries, Inc. of Orlando to provide playground equipment for two neighborhood parks in Bailey Subdivision and Sugar Subdivision.

• Changed the rules of using the two Civic Centers to require users to post a $50 cleaning deposit.

• Adopted an ordinance amending a development fee for new persons and businesses connecting to the city's sewer system.

Two attend Legion school

BELLE GLADE - Two members of American Legion Post 20 in Belle Glade attended a statewide school of instruction in membership Saturday and Sunday in Orlando according to Wilma Rowland, communications chairman for District 11.

Ms. Rowland said Russell Alston and Ken Lambert represented the local post at the school, which was held for American Legionnaires and the Legionnaires' Auxiliary.

Candidate speaks to Kiwanis

BELLE GLADE - State representative candidate Jim Watt was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club weekly meeting last Thursday. A native of Florida, Watt resides in Lake Park with his wife, Susan and his daughter, Jennifer.

Watt discussed the proposed constitutional revisions to be considered when Florida voters will go to the polls in November. He feels that all voters should be as much aware of the amendments proposed in the state constitution as of the candidates themselves.

The 89 proposed amendments have been consolidated into eight separate ballots, with a possible ninth one, if the legalized casino gambling bill makes it. Of these amendments 58 will be included in the first ballot, the "Omnibus Package".

In this package provisions for amendments such as the one appearing in Article 15, section 11, stating that "The word divorce" was changed to "dissolution of Marriage" are included. Because of the complexity of these proposals, all voters should be aware of them in order to make voting easier.

Revision two is "Basic Rights" It states "that no person will be deprived of any right because of sex".

Revision three is the proposal for "Single-member districts and reapportionment commission", four deals with the "cabinet", five deals with "Public service commission and public counsel". Revision six provides for "Selection and retention of circuit and county judges", seven explains the new revisions for "Finance and taxation" and the eighth revision focuses on "education."

Tennis tournament scheduled

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Recreation Department is sponsoring a city wide tennis tournament to be held at Lyons Park on the weekend of Aug. 12 and 13.

Singles, Doubles and Mixed Doubles Tournaments, are to be held. All contestants must be at least 14 years of age. Trophies will be given for the 1st, 2nd and 3rd places in each elimination.

Lyons Park Tennis Courts will be reserved for these matches both Saturday, Aug. 12, and Sunday, Aug. 13. Registration fee is $2 per person, and registration forms must be turned into the Recreation Department by noon Aug. 10.

Registration forms can be picked up at the Recreation Department in the City Hall. For further information contact the Recreation Department at 996-0100, extension 244.

Set your sights on safety with course

Set your sights for Aug. 2 as Hunter-Safety Day. That's when Hunter & Firearms Safety courses are scheduled to begin in Palm Beach, Broward and Dade Counties.

Sponsored by the Game & Fresh

Water Fish Commission, the Hunter-Safety courses are given free-of-charge and are open to everyone, 10 years and older, who is interested in outdoor safety and the safe use of firearms.

Proper gun handling, wildlife identification, first aid, survival, and outdoor sportsmanship are a few of the subjects covered in the course. Students will also receive some practical experience with a field trip to a shooting range.

Classes are being conducted at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 2 at Pine Jog Environmental Science Center at 6301 Summit Blvd. West Palm Beach.

Florida Certified Instructors will be on hand at each course to register students. For more information, contact the Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission, toll free, at 1-800-432-2046.

Student gets scholarship

BELLE GLADE—Eula R. Robinson of Belle Glade, a December 1977 graduate of Palm Beach Junior College, has been awarded a $600 Marshall Hamilton Scholarship to Florida State University, according to Paul R. Elliott, assistant vice president, FSU.

The student, recommended for the scholarship by PBJC administrators, will receive $300 in the 1978-79 academic year and another $300 for 1979-80, Elliott said.

Miss Robinson earned a 3.8 cumulative average in her two years at the PBJC Glades campus, served as a library assistant and was also a correspondent for the PBJC magazine, the Galleon.

Eula is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn O. Robinson of Belle Glade, originally from Jamaica.

DAVID GOODLETT, vice-president of the Glades Republican Club, conferred with Charles C. Hold, chairman of the Palm Beach County Republican Committee during a meeting held July 9 at the GOP headquarters in West Palm Beach.

Muzzleloaders now need a permit

TALLAHASSEE—Several years ago, the archers of Florida came to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission with a proposal. In exchange for a special fee permit, give them an opportunity to pursue their sport at a time when they would not be competing against modern firearms.

Since then, archers have paid an additional $5 to hunt during any special archery only season. The system has proven so successful that recently the muzzleloaders of the state approached the Commission with a similar proposal.

Beginning this fall, archers and muzzleloaders who wish to hunt during any special muzzleloaders, archery or primitive weapons (archery and muzzleloaders) hunt will be required to buy a $6 archery or muzzleloader permit.

"Statewide, this means the permit is required for the archery season September 9 through October 1 and the primitive weapons only season in the Northwest Region Jan. 27 through Feb. 11," said Fred Stanberry, director of the Commission's Division of Wildlife.

"On any wildlife management area which has special archery, muzzleloaders or primitive area stamp and hunting license will be required," he continued.

According to a list in the 1978-79 Florida Hunting handbook, there are 34 wildlife management areas open for special pre-season archery hunts, nine with special muzzleloading gun seasons and 11 with special primitive weapons hunts.

Special permits apply to these hunts, Stanberry said. During the general season beginning November 11, any sportsman wishing to hunt on a wildlife management area with a primitive weapon would not have to have the special primitive weapon permits.

Inspections on Saturdays

In a move for the convenience of motorists, the County Commission has approved new schedules for operation of Vehicle Inspection Stations.

Inspections now are available on Saturdays, a day off for most working persons. All five stations are closed Sundays and Mondays. C.W. Brown, director of the County Highway Safety Division, said inspections now are made Tuesday through Saturday, with the exception of holidays, from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

State law this year changed operational hours.

Location changes are announced on charter

Two changes in location have been determined for charter proposal informational meetings by the County Commission.

After learning that Century Village and Kings Point management could not open clubhouses to the general public, the commission shifted locations for July 31 and August 3.

The revised schedule, with all meeting set for 7:30 p.m. is:

- Monday, July 24, Commission Chambers, Room 101, County Courthouse in West Palm Beach.
- Monday, July 31, Palm Beach Junior College Main Auditorium.
- Thursday, Aug. 3, Congregation Anshei Shalom Temple-Synagogue, 5348 Grove Street, West Palm Beach.
- Monday, Aug. 7, Glades County Courthouse Auditorium, State Road 15, Belle Glade.
- Wednesday, Aug. 9, Delray Beach City Hall, 100 NW First Avenue.

The purpose of the meetings is to receive comments, pro and con, from county citizens on the proposed county charter.

GED is offered

The Department of Adult and Community Education announces that the Florida High School Equivalency Diploma Test (G.E.D.) will be given July 25 and 26 at the Adult Education Center, 1235 16th Street, West Palm Beach.

Application for the test must be made at least one week in advance and it will be given from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

The G.E.D. Test is offered weekly throughout the county. For additional information call the Adult Education Center at 996-5318.

Machines

ighthouse, an entertainment venue for youths they were operating at the time.

William Finger, an attorney representing Edwards and Roberts at the time, told the commission on Sept. 24, 1973 that they were, in effect, allowing a monopoly to exist because the only two licenses issued at that time were to Glades Music, Inc. and Lake Music Co., both of which were owned by the same men.

The only listing in the telephone book at that time was a single listing for Glades & Lake Music, Inc.; Robert Thomas and Red Gurken, Owners. City Occupational License Clerk Anna Lee said Tuesday the two licenses now issued are still made out to Glades Music Inc. with Robert Thomas listed as a local agent, and Lake Music Co., with Howard R. Armstrong listed as local agent. The telephone directory listing is still a single one for both companies but no owners are listed.

Edwards said Tuesday he is still interested in obtaining a license because he still has several machines he bought in anticipation of being granted the license in 1973.

Tyson said Tuesday morning he had been aware of the fact the existing two licenses had been issued to Glades Music, Inc. and Lake Music Co. and that they are listed as a single company in the telephone book at the time he appeared before the commission.

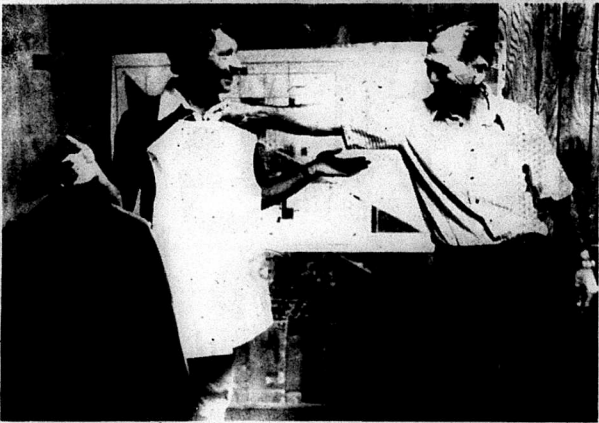

He said he didn't want to appear before the commission with the argument they may be allowing a monopoly, however. He said he would rather have the commission amend the ordinance to allow free competition.

Baker said in 1973 the reason for the restrictive nature of the licensing is based on the fact vending machines could be used for gambling and machines which vend food affect the community's health.

He went on to say the time that such restrictions stem from police powers the city has to protect the health, welfare, and peace of the public.

Edwards asked at that time that the ordinance be amended or amended but the commission refused then.

The current commission is awaiting a report from Baker and Sanders on the reason for the ordinance but Commissioner Claude Tindall said he didn't want to rush into an ordinance change.

TRY THAT ON seems to be what City Commissioner Ken Harris was saying to City Manager Robert R. Sanders during the city commission's budget session Saturday. Sanders was telling the commissioners 19 of 22 of the women employees at city hall want to wear uniforms. He said he would research the question and come back later with a definite proposal but didn't want to show the commission the type of uniforms the women are interested in.

Water

areas and construction site. Stalker said the goal of the 208 program, as mandated by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, is to make all the waters possible in the United States both swimmable and fishable by 1983.

The 208 staff has been compiling data for some time now and sources of agricultural pollution have been identified as soil oxidation, fertilizer and pesticides and animal excrement, according to a brochure Stalker handed out.

The brochure suggests three technical solutions immediately and six for long-range goals.

Recommended for immediate use are: development of equipment and facilities for harvesting water hyacinths, expansion of personnel and facilities for soil testing and plant analysis and development of an educational program.

Recommended for further study are: soil testing and plant analysis, timing and placement of fertilizer, irrigation/water management, pest management, pasture management and runoff retention.

Technical solutions for urban runoff include diversion/retention of highly polluted "first flush" runoff, various types of percolation systems, grass swales, pet-walking areas with diversion, draining and/or absorbent soil, street sweeping, vegetation and mulches, dikes, berms and ditches and soil-binding chemicals.

Although the latest government report showing a 7.2 percent increase in the overall cost of living index cites food prices as the major factor, Kautz says the figures are misleading.

"Farmers are certainly not responsible for these price increases. They're caused by higher transportation, marketing, processing and labor costs," says Kautz.

He says farmers are tired of the Carter administration blaming them for inflation.

He said the five options are:

1. Creation of a subdistrict agency of the South Florida Water Management District. This option has already been given widespread support.

2. Creation of the Palm Beach County Environmental Management Agency.

3. Use of the existing Palm Beach County Environmental Control Board.

4. Use of the existing 201 management agencies' capacities.

5. Use of the existing Area Planning Board's capacities.

Stalker said a public hearing will be held Aug. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the West Palm Beach City Commission Chambers and Stalker said the commissioners should have submitted their input by that time. He said members of the public are also being encouraged to appear at that hearing.

Don't blame food prices

GAINESVILLE — Food price increases are not the cause of inflation, says the president of Florida's largest farmer organization.

"Deficit spending by our government and huge balance-of-trade deficits are the real causes of inflation," says Walter J. Kautz, president of Florida Farm Bureau Federation.

not now being paid.

Sanders said the departments getting the biggest pay increases are the police and fire departments, in an effort to make Belle Glade more competitive with other cities in the county.

"This won't bring us up from the bottom to the top so far as police pay goes," he said, "but it should make us competitive...unless the other cities refigure their police pay scales too."

The commissioners also approved an insurance plan by which city employees, if they decide to participate by paying half the cost, can receive income protection.

They would be receiving two thirds of their pay for two years after getting too ill to work.

Sanders said one of the reasons he was able to come up with a budget reflecting a decrease in expenditures is that there aren't as many capital outlays needed this year as in the past.

Smut won't hurt crop

GAINESVILLE--Despite discovery of sugar cane smut in Florida, a state agricultural research leader says that the disease will not measurably decrease this year's sugar production and help may be coming in the form of disease-resistant varieties for the industry's future plantings.

Dr. K.R. Tefertiller, Vice President for Agricultural Affairs, University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS), called the fungus disease "serious" but added "it's slow-moving, not like a blight."

He said sugar cane smut can be controlled by planting disease-resistant varieties. IFAS research on such varieties has been underway in Jamaica for two years since the smut was discovered there.

"By planting time this fall we hope to have at least some preliminary indications of variety resistance and also the intensity of infestation," he said.

Dr. Tefertiller said IFAS researchers are working closely in a concerted team effort with personnel from the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services Division of Plant Industry and the research and regulatory branches of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We knew this problem would come someday and have been doing research on it. Sugar cane smut has hit almost every production area in the world except the United States," he said.

The smut was discovered last month in several South Florida cane fields. So far, over 5,000 of the state's 300,000 acres of plantings have been identified as being infected.

IFAS extension sugar cane specialist Gerald Kidder said, "This doesn't mean that all 5,000 acres will be damaged. It only means that smut spores have been found in them."

The fungus spores are wind-blown and have been advancing from South America for a number of years.

"This disease is potentially a serious threat, but we feel it can be controlled," he said.

Kidder said he is hoping that many of Florida's commercial-producing cane varieties already have some built-in resistance to the disease.

The fungus stunts stalk growth and forces the sugar cane leaves to roll up like a whip, bending over into an inverted u-shape, said Kidder.

Police recover stolen goods

BELLE GLADE--More than $2,700 worth of booty taken during a July Fourth weekend burglary was recovered last week by police detectives after the owner identified a window air conditioner less than a block from his home.

Detective J.R. Eberle said Lonzie Brown of 638 SW Ave. C recognized the air conditioner by some holes he had drilled in the bottom and silver tape he had put over the top of the unit. Eberle said he found the air conditioner at 717

SW Ave. C, where the owner told police he had bought it from a juvenile.

Eberle said the 16-year old boy was picked up and the other items, including a television set, a stereo system, jewelry and other items were found in the boy's room. The boy's home was also less than a block from Brown's home.

The detective, who worked the case with Detective Curtis Stambaugh, said a total of $6,000 worth of furniture, clothing and other belongings were stolen from Brown's home sometime between June 30 and July 4, when it was reported when Brown returned from an out-of-town trip.

Banker transfers to Vero Beach

BELLE GLADE--John Turnbull, president of the Florida First National Bank at Belle Glade, has been transferred to the Florida National Bank of Vero Beach. He will be assuming the presidency there Aug. 1.

For the past four years, Turnbull has actively participated in community activities. He has served on the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, been a member of the Belle Glade Rotary Club, served on the West Technical Center Advisory Committee, and a member of the Palm Beach County Personnel Appeals Board. He said of his stay here, "I have really enjoyed being here in Belle Glade very much."

Taking Turnbull's place will be J.R. (Jim) Kelly, the present first vice-president. He was elected by the bank's Board of Directors and will assume the presidency on Aug. 1.

BELLE GLADE--The visiting park was where it was at Saturday and Sunday as the Glades Correctional Institution (GCI) Jaycees sponsored their second annual Arts and Crafts Show, open to the public 4 p.m.-7:30 p.m. both days.

On display and offered for sale were such items as paintings, jewelry, leathercraft, ceramics and woodcarvings. Large boats made of wooden match sticks caught the attention of many passersby.

The time and effort expended by the 26 participating inmates on their projects was exemplified by "The Sea Way", the model of a 30 ft. sailboat, hand-made by Larry Frey, chairman of this year's Arts and Crafts committee. Built of hand-cut wood, the boat was built over a period of four months with more than 850 hours of work involved.

The items on display were made in the Hobbycraft shop at the institution.

Those visiting the show were also treated to refreshments and music performed by the G.C.I. band.

The G.C.I. Jaycees chapter, founded in 1975, presently has 117 members and actively participates in various projects throughout the year. Jaycee president at this time is Abd Oliva. The institution's superintendent is R.V. Turner.

Mace Sod wins first annual Burger King Invitational

A homerun barrage in the fourth inning propelled powerful Mace Sod to a 27-14 victory Woody's Ranch in the finals of the Burger King Invitational softball tournament Sunday afternoon at Sugarland Park.

It was the third tournament win in a row for the Belle Glade team and qualified them for the district tournament in West Palm Beach this weekend.

Mace took the early lead, but Woody's Ranch fought back to tie the score and took a short lived lead.

The fourth inning, however, was disastrous for Woody's Ranch. Mace's first four batters clouted homeruns. After the dust had cleared, Mace had batted around and slugged a total of six homeruns. Gary Bradshaw slammed back to back homeruns in the big inning.

Ten teams from the Lake Okeechobee area participated in the double elimination tournament.

Mace won the winner's bracket and went into the final game undefeated. Woody's routed M&M Sporting Goods of Clewiston 33-9 in the semi-finals. Clewiston Merchants finished fourth.

M&M had been seeded number one in the tournament until Fulford Diary of Okeechobee seeded second. Mace was seeded third and Woody's was the fourth seeded team in the tournament.

U.S. Sugar Corp., Peoples Bros. Ranch of Moore Haven, Cleghorn's Dairy, Brighton and Chan Market also participated.

Bradshaw was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. He had a sizzling 300 batting average and ripped eight home runs.

Wallis Pharmacy upsets First Baptist in overtime

By Karen Hansford

Sports

BELLE GLADE - Glades Women's Softball continued last week with the team of Wallis Pharmacy pulling a 7-6 upset over First Baptist Church in a game that went into overtime play.

Bonnie Mockinger made the lone run as Wallis took the lead in the bottom of the first inning after holding First Baptist to no score.

The First Baptist girls exploded for four runs in the top of the third, sending eight batters to the plate. Their lead was short-lived, however, as Wallis came back in the bottom for four runs to make it 5-4. Both teams relied on defense in the next two innings, each holding the other to no gain.

First Baptist tied the game in the sixth on Bobbie Markham's run, with one out and the go-ahead run on first base. Hopes were squelched as the next two batters were put out to keep it a tie game.

The seventh inning was again scoreless, with only one runner between the two teams making it to base.

Opening the top of the eighth, First Baptist threatened to take the game, sending Paula Anderson across the plate to break the tie, but the Wallis batters bounced back, and with one out and runners on all three bases, Doris Velez looped the ball into short-leftfield, which the shortstop missed, scoring the tying and winning runs. Final score was 7-6. The loss was First Baptist's second of the season.

In the other game played that evening, Miami Herald-rostered Dixie Fried Chicken, 14-4 in a five-inning game.

Miami Herald jumped off to a six-run lead in the first inning and added five in the second and three more in the fifth enroute to the victory. Dixie Fried's score did not come until the fifth inning, when the girls rallied for all four runs, taking advantage of three singles and three walks, before Herald shortstop Donna Garcia flipped a grounder to second for the final out.

In the double header played in Belle Glade on Tuesday, July 18 Wallis Pharmacy took the first game over Local 2152, 10-3.

Susan Moss was the leading hitter for Wallis, with two triples, Barbara Hartzog whacked a double for the team's only other multi-base hit.

Local's score came in the first inning, when Taryn Kent, Wanda McMillan and Sara Rives scored. The loss was Local's sixth of the season.

The second game found Dixie Fried Chicken holding top-ranked First Baptist to no score in the first three innings, while amassing three runs in a tightly controlled defensive game.

It wasn't until the fourth inning that First Baptist players began using their sticks and broke loose for four runs to take the lead. They added six in the fifth on five hits and three errors to take command. Liz Canonic was the heavy hitter, with a double and a triple to her credit.

Dixie Fried brought in two last runs in the seventh inning before yielding, making the final score 10-5.

League Standings as of 7/21/78: South Bay Growers, 6-1; Miami Herald, 5-2; Wallis Pharmacy, 5-2; First Baptist Church, 4-2; CUMC, 4-3; Bank of Pahokee, 1-5; Local 2152, 1-6; Dixie Fried Chicken, 1-6.

Oldtimers defeat Youngbloods

BELLE GLADE -- In a down-to-the-wire game last Wednesday, the City of Belle Glade softball team (oldtimers) defeated the youngbloods, a group of volunteers participating in the city's recreation program at GCHA, by a score of 12-10 in an eight inning overtime game.

The oldtimers, playing behind the pitching of Daniel Bythwood, had to come from behind and cover a large deficit when the youngbloods lead by a score 7 to 2 in the early innings.

Playing for the city were Johnny Rutledge, Recreation Director; Harry Beale, Recreation Coordinator; Pete Webb, Fire Chief; John Gubisch III, City Planner; Joe Fay, Assistant City Manager; Cary Wall, Assistant Finance Director; Daniel Bythwood, Clara Brown, Eli Martin and Kenneth Funderburk, student recreation assistants at GCHC.

Willie McDonald, coordinator for the city's recreation program at GCHA, said the softball games are a part of a large number of summer activities the city is providing at GCHS, and would like to extend an invitation to the community to attend another game between the City of Belle Glade and summer recreation employees Wednesday, August 3 at 2 p.m. at the GCHS baseball field, coordinated by J.T. McCoy.

THE CITY OF BELLE GLADE softball team defeated the youngbloods 12-10 in a softball game last Wednesday held at GCHS, kneeling from left to right Kenneth Funderburk, Johnny Rutledge, John Gubisch, Clara Brown and Daniel Bythwood. Standing, Harry Beale, Eli Martin, Pete Webb, Cary Wall and Joe Fay.

Belle Glade manager gives "State of the City" annual message

BELLE GLADE—(EDITOR'S NOTE) For the second consecutive year, City Manager Robert Sanders began budget sessions with as State of the City message to the city commissioners, much as the President presents an annual State of the Union message to Congress.

Because the message affects everyone in Belle Glade, The Herald is printing the message verbatim.

Once again, I would like to take the opportunity, as you prepare to review the 1978-79 Budget, to present a short narrative concerning what has transpired in the City in the past year.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The budget you approved for 1977-78 has been the guideline for the operation of the City during the last year. It has been an extremely productive year, exciting in many aspects, and rewarding in all aspects. Highlighting the year was the move into the new City Hall. The new building has proved to be extremely functional and attractive at the same time. Many dozens of visitors have all commented favorably on the building. The entire community takes pride in it.

The commitment on the part of the City employees to provide the most efficient service possible to the citizenry has continued and is being reinforced. The attitude of the Police Department in defeating the Police Union reflects that of all City employees - that morale is high and the employees are proud of their work. The employees are grateful to the City Commission for its many expressions of confidence and appreciation for a job being well done.

Below are listed some of the major accomplishments, or projects underway, of 1977-78.

CANDID CONCLUSIONS

The City Commission has a very difficult, and often thankless, job.

Problems seem to continually arise and often, I'm sure, you feel as if Belle Glade is a City of 100,000 instead of 17,000, what with the number of decisions to be made.

Belle Glade is growing at a substantial rate. In the first eight months of fiscal year 1977-78,

$4,258,586 in building permits were issued, over one million more than the same period in 1976-77.

This growth creates additional burdens on the services required by our citizens. To meet this demand is an ever-present challenge to the Commission and to all employees.

The City, in the past year, has become fully staffed to meet this challenge without significant increases in personnel or equipment in the near future. The City

Departments work well together and many tasks are performed that heretofore were contracted out.

Sidewalk construction, street reconstruction, water line installation, sewer line installation, tennis court light installation, and demolitions are examples of work completed by City forces rather than by contract.

The City Commission has relied on the staff in the past for valid information and I urge you to continue to do so in the future. Confidence in staff's ability encourages greater effort on their part, and leads to better eventual decisions for the community.

1977-78 was projected to be an exciting year. This has been more than true! From the dream fulfilling new City Hall to the seven and one-half miles of new water lines, 1977-78 will be remembered as a year of several giant steps by Belle Glade. All City employees are proud of the City and of the City Commission, but especially proud of the City's citizens who daily accept, with patience and humor, our struggle to meet the challenge of providing water service, sewer service, trash collection, street maintenance, sign maintenance, fire protection, police protection, recreation facilities, meter reading, library service,

school crossing guards, traffic light maintenance, building permitting, planning, financial services, sidewalk building, community development, mechanical services, lot mowing, median maintenance, storm water drain maintenance, personnel records, ordinance writing, building inspection, fire inspection, compliance with EPA rules and regulations, compliance with DER rules and regulations, compliance with

County Health Department rules and regulations, compliance with

HUD rules and regulations, compliance with HEW rules and regulations...

The City is ready for 1978-79!
